P R E F A C E

A CATALOGUE raisonné of the miniatures, with biographies of the artists, descriptions of the miniatures, and technical notes, is in preparation, but as a considerable time must elapse before its completion it was decided to issue a hand-list in an abridged form. Further details concerning such of the miniatures as are in the Jones Collection will be found in the Catalogue of the Jones Collection, Part III., 1923.

A certain number of carefully finished pencil portraits, or plumbago drawings, and small water-colour portraits of miniature size are included, but sundry other portrait drawings of a somewhat similar character, e.g. those by Downman, which are larger than the average miniature, are omitted.

Apart from portraits, the collection of miniatures contains only a few miscellaneous subjects, such as landscapes and flower-pieces, but besides those which are included in the hand-list the Museum possesses various miniature paintings which form part of the decoration of snuff-boxes, watch-cases, etc.; these are in the Department of Metalwork.

Wax miniatures, which fall within the scope of the Department of Sculpture, are not included.

The miniatures cannot all be shown together, because of the conditions governing certain bequests. The arrangement of the various collections of miniatures in the Museum is at present as follows :—

Main Collection	Rooms 99-103, 109.
Salting Collection	Room 129.
Dyce Collection	Room 84.
Jones Collection	Room 65.
Captain H. B. Murray's Collection .	Room 106.
Miscellaneous	Room 38.

Photographs of many of the miniatures can be ordered at a small cost by post or at the Catalogue Stall.

Inquiries about the miniatures may be made by writing to the Director and Secretary of the Museum or by personal application to the officer in charge of the Department of Paintings at the Students' Room, No. 71.

The hand-list has been prepared by Mr. B. S. Long, Assistant Keeper in the Department of Paintings, with the assistance of Mr. F. W. Stokes.
